NEW MEDIUM PORTER'S SPIRIT. Edited by

PRICE TWO CENTS

WILLIAM T. PORTER, Por over a quarter of a century the Falter of The Old Spirit of The Times. In this new Medium for the Spirit of the Literary Intelligence of the day, Porter will be on hand, or he will send a reporter, with all the clinic news of the day.

the stirring news of the day. Horses will be treated of, both in pedigree and performance, and the regular files of the Turf Register kept open for inspection. Matches will be made and settled, but not matrimonial, or Lucifer, which are sometimes synonymous. Cattle will have their place allotted, and all in formation for improving the breed, and procuring valuable stock will be first ished from time to time. Sheep shall not be lost sight of because they have the wool pulled over their eyes, but piects to the South Down. Notices of pigs shall be promptly leaded, and sketched with the fidelity of a Hoyarth. Also all their pens will be treated of, except Mr. Penz's treaty-that is, with due respect to Philadelphia, which the author of Parnas-

" There verse in inverse ratio brings reverses." The Baces will be regularly recorded except the Anglo-Saxon the most interesting passage in which is expected when Mr Hall makes an entry. A regular metronome will be kept in the office to beat any time. The Dog, also, shall have his day, although an African Dey preferred a cat in Dick Whistington's time, that is, a Maltese cat, such as were used by the Knights of Malta, who were probably the original lager beer drinkers.

PORTER will occasionally be " speaking of a gun," touching upon Trap shooting, and without introducing the entire play of Macbeth, will state whether Duncan beats the King, or the Macbeth, will state whether Duncan beats the king, or the King heats Duncan. The subject of rifles will be rifled by a man of caliber, and no great hore admitted in that decoartment. An investigation will be made whether the Minne Rifle came from Minnesota, or whether the State is so called because it is the meanest sort o' countrys Modern Reports from Ancient Pistol are expected to be edited in many volumes, by John Travis. Loaded slicks and Prairie Shooting Clubs will not be considerthe map of Hell Gate and Sea base to pole from designs by Genio C. Scott, will be published as a specimen of fishing grounds, al-though the arounds are some considerable depth under water. but it is expressly understood that no fish story will be admitted i the columns of this paper, unless vouchers can be found from the man that saw it, or some man that had seen a man who said h man," and the whole affair sworn to, with a cross, X his mark and two Seal. The bats in such case will not be classed under the ornithological head-and the Marin's be admitted, bird and beast, from a buffalo bull or a grizzly, down to a reed bird or a bobolink. Elk and deer to es (unratices) will be published. The norms of the Musk Ox, Moose and Dilem ma (Ethicpian for the Lama) will be taken as subscription. Item, also cash and country produce. All stories of Foxes will be classed with Fishes, as the former have been spiritually "run into the ground"—and as bar fights usually have a spiritual origin, they shall have the same classification, unless it we a quarrel between two steambon's' crews aground on a sand-bar in the Object Massasippi, then it shall be classed with the turne urder the title of loggerheads. Great pairs will be taken in the Oramatic department, but any pairs taken in the attic-room will be considered rheumatic pains—all phases of the art will receive attention. Tragedy, comedy, pastoral, which Potentia mentions, except the " poem unlimited," this particular Spirit not having unlimited space. Farce, pantomime dancing, necromancers and wizerds shall be treated " according to their desert." Music of the oratorio, the stately robes of the opers, or the Nora Creina mantle of simple sorg. But music will not be printed, unless very beautiful and popular, such as "pop goes the wessel." If, however, friend Branuan will play another tune upon his harp of a thousand strings, it shall be introduced with variations. Literature shall not be neglected; there shall be "a brief ab-stract and chroticle of the time." The works of the Farcy, however, will come under the head of prize articles. Rare and racy stories, from all parts of the land, will appear, from the moose-woods of Maine, the turkey-filled bazle thickets of Ken. tucky the grouse-haunted prairies of Lilmois, the evergreen care brakes of Louisians, off to the golden-sanded home of the giant grizzly bear in California. All the old troop of correspendents will be renewed, and many new ones added, from the Hebrides, the Ardes, and the Antipodes, Finally, the mos Hebrides, the Acces, and the Antiposes. Finally, its acteful attention will be devoted to the Farmer—and spriculture, the basis of our national prosperity, shall receive the utmest care that can be bestowed upon it, in the publication of all that a new and valuable in that important department.

In short, all these things will be treated at great length, and
